

DIX CHOICE OF THE DEMOCRATS

Business Man Nominated for Governor of New York.

RELUCTANT TO MAKE RACE

Candidate Not Anxious to Enter the Field Against Stimson—Progressive Platform of the Widest Type Adopted by Convention at Rochester Leader of Tammany in Control of the Democratic Convention.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 1.—A state convention that will go into history as one of the most remarkable in the history of the Democratic party closed by nominating John A. Dix, chairman of the party's state committee and a wealthy Washington county business man, to run on the progressive platform of the widest type.

The platform, framed to cover the issues which the Democratic leaders believe were inadequately met by the Republican convention at Saratoga, gained no less attention and approval than the candidate.

Regarding the platform there was from the first little or no division of opinion. But the candidate was not chosen until Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, who by virtue of his 213 delegates was in a position to control the convention, had canvassed the merits of no less than fourteen others.

"I said I would give them an up-state candidate and I've done it," was Mr. Murphy's comment on the nomination.

Mainly on account of his office as state chairman, but for personal reasons also, Mr. Dix stood out against the wishes of the leaders until after the time set for the concluding session of the convention. When he had once accepted the offer of nomination the rest of the ticket took only two hours to arrange.

Aspirants for Places Numerous.

Meanwhile, 450 delegates waited in convention hall, uncertain as to who the candidates would be. So numerous were aspirants for places on the ticket that not one ventured more than a prediction of who would be selected until the leaders concluded their deliberations in the rooms of Mr. Murphy and came to the hall.

The convention proceedings that followed were marked by a smoothness and rapidity which Democrats say indicated the harmony of their organization.

Congressman William Sulzer was the only other candidate for the nomination for governor who took his case before the delegates and his defeat was decisive. Out of 450 votes he received 16.

The ticket in full for the state election is: Governor, John A. Dix, Washington county; lieutenant governor, Thomas F. Conway, Clinton county; secretary of state, Edward Lazansky, Kings county; controller, William Schuler, New York; state treasurer, John J. Kennedy, Erie county; attorney general, Thomas R. Carmody, Yates county; state engineer and surveyor, John A. Bensel, New York; associate judge of the court of appeals, Frederick K. Collin, Chemung county.

This list of candidates, prepared after a day of almost continuous conference, went through with only two halts in its quick progress. This was the presentation of the name of Congressman William Sulzer as the only rival candidate for governor. Mr. Sulzer received 16 of the 450 votes of the convention and Mr. Dix got the remainder.

Opposed Wishes of Leaders.

Supreme Court Justice James A. Bates of Ulster county was the only other candidate presented in opposition to the wishes of the leaders.

For associate judge of the court of appeals he received 22 votes, but before the result of the balloting was announced the nomination of Mr. Collin was made unanimous on the motion of Ulster's delegate.

The platform adopted by the convention pledges the party first to the preservation of the "old nationalism." It condemned "all attacks upon the supreme court of the United States." It declares for sovereign state rights, "for the largest possible measure of home rule for all cities of the state."

It declares that the Payne-Aldrich tariff law was a "breach of faith" by the Republican party and responsible for the high cost of living. Only by a downward revision of the tariff, it holds, can the cost of living be reduced.

It charges the Republican party with extravagance, especially in the creation of many needless public offices and pledges the Democratic party to retrenchment. "Even this gross extravagance," it says, "is overshadowed by the revelations of corruption forced from a Republican legislature. This almost made the legislature a hissing byword throughout the nation."

"We declare in favor of statewide primaries to insure to the people the right to elect candidates and make nominations for public offices."

"We favor the enactments of such measures as will compel the personal registration of voters throughout the entire state."

The platform declares for popular election of United States senators, for an income tax and for a parcels post for the preservation of water power for all the people, for forest reserve for "reasonable regulation by the state of public service corporations," abolition of the use of impure seeds and improvement of canals and roads to provide easier access to market and lower the cost of living.

"We condemn the malfeasance and incompetency of Republican administration of the forest preserve. We demand strict and impartial enforcement of the forest laws, including immediate abolition of unlawful special privileges in lands dedicated by the law to the use and benefit of all the people."

It calls for an employers' liability bill and the restriction of child labor and equal privileges for American citizens traveling abroad, whether native or naturalized.

It endorses the merit system in civil service and legislation to prevent consumption.

The new nationalism plank closed the document. It is as follows:

"Lastly, we solemnly declare our inflexible opposition to the so-called 'new nationalism.' Its inventor put this forward as if it were progress, while in reality it is sheer reaction to tyrannical methods long ago shaken off by the free people of the world, oftentimes at cruel cost in treasure and blood. The settlers of our country fled from Europe to escape it. Whatever advance its adoption would bring is advance toward socialism."

His Conundrum.

It was during the prize course at the boarding house breakfast table. The thin man spoke:

"I've got a new one this morning. Why is a one cent stamp like a sloop?"

"Because," began the stenographer, with her eyes on the ceiling.

"No; that's not the reason," said the thin man.

"My guess is because a sale makes it go," suggested the fat boarder at the end of the table.

"Very good," said the thin man, "but not the correct answer."

"Well, we give it up," came in chorus.

"Because it's a single sticker," said the thin man as he began to dodge things—Yonkers Statesman.

A Superstitious Musician.

Schumann was always inclined to superstition. When he visited Beethoven's grave at Vienna he found a rusty steel pen lying on it. This he carefully and reverently preserved and afterward used in writing his B flat symphony, believing that it would bring him inspiration. But this superstition, harmless enough in his early years, became accentuated later in an alarming manner. He began to take an unhealthy interest in table turning and spirit rapping. He was, moreover, intensely influenced by dreams and omens. One night he dreamed that the spirits of Mendelssohn and Schubert appeared to him and gave him a theme which he afterward wrote down and developed.

Leif and Columbus Dethroned.

The paths of great discoveries have always been thorny ones, as our aspirants for polar honors can testify, but it remains for an old farmer to put forth an as yet unheard of rival to the great Columbus.

The farmer's wife was greatly stirred up by the agitation of the woman's rights question. One evening the old lady was condemning the men in very strong terms and expressing herself in favor of women's voting. The old man got tired of it. He dropped his paper and exclaimed:

"Marende, the men hev made out to govern this kentry ever since Robinson Crusoe discovered it, and I guess they will for a spell longer, so you keep still."—Youth's Companion.

A Story of Old Ironsides.

One of the most famous of the Constitution's exploits was during the war of 1812, when she escaped from Broke's squadron, among which she had accidentally fallen. The sea was almost a dead calm, so Captain Hull had to resort to towing. All her boats were lowered, with long lines attached, and in addition Hull had ropes spliced together to make a line half a mile long, to which he attached a kedge anchor. This was carried in a boat half a mile ahead and dropped, when the crew hauled the ship rapidly forward. The commodore of the English squadron soon adopted the same tactics, and if it had not been for a breeze springing up the Constitution would have been captured.

Lives Saved by Tobacco.

John Wesley was saved from disaster by tobacco, as is shown by this extract from his journal:

"Came to Turner's hall (Deptford), which holds (by computation) 2,000 persons. The press both within and without was very great. In the beginning of the expounding, there being a large vault beneath the main beam, the floor immediately sank, which occasioned much noise and confusion among the people. But two or three days before a man had filled the vault with hogsheds of tobacco, so that the floor, after sinking a foot or two, rested upon them, and I went on without interruption."

There never was a bad man that had ability for good service.—Burke.

CHOLERA CLAIMS SEVERAL VICTIMS

Bulletin Shows Plague in Italy Is Unchecked.

Rome, Oct. 1.—An official bulletin gives the following report covering the last twenty-four hours in the cholera infected district:

Naples city, 11 deaths and 18 new cases; Naples province, 1 death and 9 new cases; Salerno province, 1 death and 1 new case; Caserta province, 2 new cases; Sassari province, 1 death and 4 new cases; Apulia province, 3 deaths and 4 new cases.

PRECAUTIONS BEING TAKEN

Marine Hospital Service Trying to Keep Cholera Out of America.

Washington, Oct. 1.—Reports on the precautions being taken by the representatives of the marine hospital and public health service of the United States to protect America from the landing of Italian immigrants from the cholera infected districts of Italy have been received by Surgeon General Wyman.

Surgeon H. D. Geddings, stationed at Naples, in response to a cablegram from Surgeon General Wyman, saying it was reported that Italian immigrants from the plague centers were shipping from Genoa, replied in substance that he had been watching that port carefully. A recent inspection there showed that, in addition to the precautions of keeping emigrants from the infected districts under observation for five days and disinfecting their baggage, two physicians sailed on each ship leaving port with emigrants, and also an Italian army or navy surgeon of high rank looked rigidly after the health and sanitary conditions of the emigrants.

As a result of information from Italy Surgeon General Wyman directed Surgeon Geddings to send Post Assistant Surgeon King to inspect the port of Palermo, from which Italian immigrants from the cholera district may sail.

Lamps Lighted by Wireless.

Copenhagen, Oct. 1.—Waldemar Poulsen, the Danish inventor, has succeeded in lighting incandescent lamps by the wireless transmission of an electric current.

Blowing Flowers.

When amateurs speak of flowers "blowing" they are not using a mere vulgarism. They are speaking real old English. In the early tongue the verb "blow" was used to indicate the opening of flowers. Instead of "blow" being a corruption of "bloom" it is the other way about. "Blossom" comes from the same root. We do not grow the costard apple nowadays, but our forefathers set great store by the sort and bought it eagerly in the streets from the "mongers." From costard monger to costermonger is a short step. Hawthorne, too, has its interest. The old form of haw was hoga, which means hedge. Hawthorne is therefore simply hedge thorn.—London Graphic.

Guilt of Manslaughter.

Minneapolis, Oct. 1.—Frank Hoist, charged with killing Lieutenant John McNamara, a Minneapolis fireman, on May 17 last year, was found guilty of manslaughter in the first degree at his second trial in the Hennepin county district court. The jury was out half an hour. Hoist will probably be sentenced Monday and may serve from five to twenty years in the penitentiary.

Hawk Attacks Harvester.

Clark, S. D., Oct. 1.—Olaf Bakken, while mowing grass, was attacked by a large hawk, which swooped down upon him and severely scratched his face. It was with difficulty that he overcame the hawk and made it a prisoner.

Cholera in Italy.

Rome, Sept. 30.—The official bulletin gives the following report for the last twenty-four hours in the cholera infected districts: Naples City, 29 cases, 17 deaths; Apulia, 3 cases, 1 death; Foggia province, 3 deaths.

EXPLAINS VOTE FOR LORIMER

Representative Shepard on the Witness Stand.

PROMISE MADE BY SENATOR

Caused Illinois Democrat to Cast His Ballot for the Election of the Junior Senator From Illinois—Six Witnesses Heard by the Committee Which Is Investigating the Charge of Alleged Bribery.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Representative of Henry A. Shepard, Jerseyville, Ill., Democrat, testified before the Lorimer investigating committee that he was induced to vote for Senator Lorimer on the verbal promise of Mr. Lorimer that he would do all in his power to prevent the appointment of two certain Jerseyville men to the postmastership of that town. Shepard said that he still hoped the promise would be performed.

Altogether six witnesses were heard by the committee. Of these four were members of the legislature which elected Senator Lorimer. George W. Myers was the only legislator of the four who did not vote for Senator Lorimer. His testimony was, in substance, that he had refused to vote for Mr. Lorimer after being informed by Minority Leader Lee O'Neill Browne that there were good state jobs and "plenty of ready money" in prospect if he voted that way.

Representative Michael Link testified that he received $1,000 from Browne and $900 from Representative Wilson in St. Louis, but insisted that the money was not in payment for his vote, which he asserted he cast for Senator Lorimer because of his position in favor of federal aid in the Illinois deep waterways project.

Representative John H. Dewolf of Fulton county said that he voted for Senator Lorimer to "break the deadlock," and that he was not promised anything for his vote nor did he receive anything for it.

The other two witnesses corroborated some of the statements of Representative White, the first witness called in the hearing.

In addition to saying that the promise to prevent the Jerseyville postoffice going into the hands of men who were unfriendly to him, Representative Shepard told of his two visits to St. Louis, one on June 21, when he met Lee O'Neill Browne, and one of July 15, when he met Representative Robert Wilson.

Received Nothing of Value.

Shepard testified that no money or anything of value was given him by Browne, with whom he lunched that day, although he admitted that he saw Representative Beckmeyer in Browne's room while he was there. Beckmeyer has testified that on the same occasion he received $1,000 from Browne and Link also admitted that he got a package of $1,000 from Browne on that day.

Shepard said he saw a number of the legislators in Wilson's room, including White, Link and Beckmeyer, and testified that he went into the bathroom with Wilson at the latter's request.

"While you were in the bathroom with Wilson," asked Attorney Austrian, "did Wilson give you a package?"

"He did not."

The postoffice promise, Shepard said, was made in person by Senator Lorimer.

The witness related his experience before the grand jury in Chicago when the exposure of the conditions at Springfield was being made and said he was threatened with indictment for perjury if he did not assert that he received money from Browne and Wilson.

Representative Dewolf was questioned concerning his investments in real estate since the election of Senator Lorimer and the close of the session of the legislature. He told of borrowing money to buy two farm tracts and testified that for a long time before the election of Senator Lorimer he had been ready to vote for a Republican.

"I was anxious to end the deadlock and get home," Dewolf said in response to questions from Senator Frazier.

"Senator Lorimer came to me and asked me if I could vote for a Republican and I told him I could. He said he was thinking of being a candidate and I told him I would vote for him. He said he was a Republican of the old school—a protectionist."

Edwin R. Wright, president of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, testified that he advised Representative White to take his story of conditions in the legislature to the newspaper which published it.

La Follette's Condition Not Critical.

Rochester, Minn., Oct. 1.—"We have seen the Doctors Mayo. Examination not completed. Thus far favorable. No occasion for anxiety." FRANCIS J. HENEY.

Delivers Address Before the National Irrigation Congress.

OVATION GIVEN TO FRANCIS J. HENEY

Attorney Delivers an Address at Irrigation Congress.

Pueblo, Colo., Oct. 1.—"Under our law, state and national, four-fifths of the resources of the country already have passed into the hands of monopolists. We of the conservation movement are trying to save the other fifth for the people."

Francis J. Heney, speaking before the National Irrigation congress here on the last day of its session, was given an ovation when he thus defined the purpose of the conservationists.

"Two-thirds of our coal lands already have been given away," he continued. "Any policy advocating the retention of ineffective lands for the giving away of the other third of our birthright can only be considered a policy of foolishness."

"Why were we not wise enough to act when the Populists told us these things fifteen years ago? Instead, we waited until Roosevelt took up the fight and until President Taft endorsed the Roosevelt programme before the St. Paul conservation congress."

The grant of 55,000,000 acres to transcontinental railroads, Mr. Heney said, involved more land than all that has been reclaimed by irrigation and taken up in homesteads.

Resolutions adopted by the congress declare that "federal control is essential to equitable distribution and utilization of water of interstate streams."

Creation of a special agency through which the government shall act is recommended. The work of the reclamation service is commended.

Benjamin A. Fowler of Arizona was re-elected president of the congress over the recommendation of the committee on permanent organization that B. E. Twitchell of New Mexico be given that honor. Other recommendations of the committee were followed. Other officers are: Secretary, Arthur Hooker, Spokane; foreign secretary, E. McQueen Gray, New Mexico. Chicago was chosen as the meeting place for 1911.

CHILD IS BURNED TO DEATH

Children Playing in Barn Start Fatal Fire.

Cottonwood, Minn., Oct. 1.—Children playing in a barn belonging to Charles Cansyn, a farmer eight miles southwest of here, started a fire that resulted in the death of his four-year-old daughter. The girl and her brother were playing in the loft and her dress became ignited. Before her brother could bring the father to her assistance all avenues of escape were shut off by the flames. Besides the barn Cansyn lost all his horses, harness and feed.

Will End at Dubuque.

St. Paul, Oct. 1.—The new proposed electric interurban railway to tap the territory south of St. Paul, which is promoted and backed by St. Paul business men, is planned on a larger scale than was indicated when the articles of incorporation were filed. Later developments show that it is not only the intention of the company to run a line to Mankato, but to build a system that will include the towns of the state to the southern border and pass through Northern Iowa centers, ending at Dubuque.

CANDIDATE'S SON IS DEAD

Child Is Burned to Death While at Play.

Minot, N. D., Oct. 1.—Mrs. C. A. Johnson, wife of the Republican candidate for governor, is in a serious condition as the result of the shock of the fire in which her three-year-old son was burned to death. The boy was playing with a neighbor's child in the little summer house and started a small fire, which ended in his death. His body was hardly recognizable. Mr. Johnson was at New Rockford at the time.

MAY DIVIDE LYMAN COUNTY

Proposed New Sections Larger Than Other Counties.

Presho, S. D., Oct. 1.—The voters of Lyman county are taking keen interest in the proposition to divide the county into two parts, the western portion to be named Jones county and the eastern part to retain the name of Lyman. Lyman county at present is approximately 100 miles long and thirty miles wide. Jones county would consist of about twenty-eight townships and will be larger than thirty other counties in the state. It will contain the towns of Draper, Murdo, Okaton, Capa and Van Meter. The remainder of the county, the eastern part, will consist of over forty townships, with an assessed valuation of about $4,500,000. The townships which it is proposed to include in Jones county have an assessed valuation of about $3,500,000.

POOR SHOOTING SAVES LIFE

Seven Shots Fired at North Dakota Man Without Effect.

Bisbee, N. D., Oct. 1.—Seven shots were fired at Anton Nelson, a farmer living near here, by a man whom the officials believe is Thomas Owings and whom they have placed under arrest. Mr. Nelson's attention being attracted by the report of a revolver in front of the house, he went out doors and found a man standing in the road. The fellow immediately opened fire, shooting six times. Three of the bullets came dangerously close to Nelson. The man disappeared in the darkness. Owings disclaims all knowledge of a motive for the shooting.

Former President Lauds the Republican Candidate for Governor of New York and the Platform Adopted at the Saratoga Convention—Declares That Special Interests Had No Influence on Action Taken at Saratoga.

New York, Oct. 1.—Theodore Roosevelt, addressing the National Republican league, in session at Carnegie hall, delivered his first speech of the state campaign.

Praising the platform and Henry L. Stimson, the Republican nominee for governor, he compared the Republican state convention with the Democratic convention, held at Rochester, and on the strength of his comparison said he felt the Republicans had the right to appeal to every decent citizen in the state, without regard to party affiliations, to vote their way. The Saratoga gathering he styled a "people's convention," free from the influence of special interests.

John Hays Hammond, as president of the league, introduced the colonel. The attendance was not large and colonel Roosevelt was somewhat hoarse after his labors at Saratoga.

"But," Mr. Hammond said, "even his whisper is heard around the world and we will follow him up any San Juan hill he may lead us."

Colonel Roosevelt said in part:

"I am here to report progress. We have just held the Republican state convention at Saratoga. There never has been held in the State of New York a convention that was more methodical—a people's convention—not a lobbyist, not a representative of a single special interest exercised a finger's weight of influence in that convention. That convention represented absolutely the opinions, the reasoned convictions and belief of the plain, everyday men who make up the rank and file of the Republican party in the state of New York, and it represented equally the reasoned faith of the independent voters

Bemidji is to put on air with a $20,000 station to be built by the Soo and M. & L. roads.

The St. Cloud Times thinks "independents should receive no democratic sympathy or support." How about republican candidates at primary elections.

They need a few good losers up in the 53d district judging from the newspaper comments on the successful candidate for the senate from Hubbard, Wadena and Todd counties.

The prohibitionist candidate for representative received seven votes in Aitkin county—and Aitkin is a dry town at that. Possibly that is the reason for the light dry vote.

James Gray is out for county option and the democratic party is split in two as a result. Gray is a good fellow, popular with the newspaper boys and can make a good humorous speech, but he is entirely too light weight to cure the evils he seems to see existing in our midst.

Bob Dunn received twice as many votes for representative in his home county as any of the four candidates on the ticket, and a man's home reputation is something to go on.
With Dunn in the legislature the coming winter the good roads proposition will receive proper attention.

Judging from the present indications the December meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association which will be held in this city will be a lively one. An effort is already being made to undo the good work started and the defeat of the reappointment movement is now the prime object. An endeavor is being made to array the county option forces against the movement and the occasion for it seems to have been because the county option candidate for the senate from Todd county fell behind the breastworks during the recent battle of ballots.

on Thursday afternoon.

E. J. McCullough, advance agent of the "Volunteer Organist" company was in the city today making arrangements for the presentation of his play. This is the first trip of the play in this section of the country. It has been on the road for ten years. There are 20 people in the cast and a car load of scenery is carried. It is expected to give a matinee and an evening performance on Saturday, October 8th.

In yesterday's writup of "Bobbie Blake" there was unintentionally omitted a reference to the recitation which Prof. P. V. Malm delivered between the first and second acts of the play. It was John Boyle O'Reilly's selection entitled "My Old Sweetheart." Miss Esther Belmont took the part of the little girl and Miss Ethel Parker of the girl to womanhood grown. The stage was most appropriately arranged for the recitation and Prof. Malm's selection pleased the audience.

A good story is being told about
M. T. Dunn, who attended the Crow Wing county fair at Pequot yesterday. He was appointed one of the judges and in making the award for the second best water melon on exhibit, he pinned the water melon badge on a citron. The citron man clings to his water melon badge and the water melon man may file a protest, claiming he has been handed a lemon. As treasurer of the Minnesota state fair board Mr. Dunn has always been considered an expert when it comes to classifying Minnesota's agricultural products, and there you are.

STOVE DEMONSTRATION

L. L. Brown, of Detroit, Mich., is at
C. M. Patek's Exhibiting New Peninsular Stove

L. L. Brown, of Detroit, Mich., is at the store of C. M. Patek demonstrating the value of the new features of the Peninsular ranges made by the Peninsular Stove Co. The exhibit occupies the front window of the store and is a section of a kitchen displaying the stove, kitchen cabinet, Radisson flour and other conveniences found in a well appointed kitchen.

Mr. Brown is running a range without any chimney connection whatever and has three joints of paper pipe attached. He uses charcoal in his demonstrations and his exhibitions are made to show that this make of stove does not lose any heat. The triple wall with filling concentrates the heat and is considered a great fuel saving device and is considered by Mr. Brown to use only half as much fuel as the ordinary cast stove. The polished tops are also a great convenience as it saves the housewife the drudgery of blackening stoves.

Mr. Brown bakes biscuits in three minutes and does other culinary feats. He will be at Patek's all day until ten o'clock in the evening, and will gladly answer all questions and explain all the features of the Peninsular range. All housewives are especially requested to call as well as the gentlemen of the house.

For County Attorney

So many good people have been urging me to become a candidate for county attorney that I have been made to believe that there must be some good reason for it.

My name will not be presented at the primaries but I will file by petition as an Independent Candidate, and if I get enough votes at the polls on November 8th, I will give that office the proper business administration.

The eyes of the world are upon this section of the state. Crow Wing county will make history in the next two years, and I shall be glad of the opportunity to contribute my very best endeavors.

Brainerd, Sept. 9th, 1910.
JAY HENRY LONG.

NOTICE

To the Voters of Crow Wing Co.— I hereby announce myself as an independent candidate for superintendent of schools and respectfully solicit the support of all voters at the general election Nov. 8th.

Respectfully,
MRS. IRMA CAMP HARTLEY.

Notice

To the Voters of Crow Wing County: I hereby announce myself as an independent candidate for coroner, and respectfully solicit the support of all voters at the general election Nov.
8th.

Respectfully,
C. A. NELSON.

A CARD TO VOTERS

I am a candidate for county attorney, and respectfully ask your support at the polls. I have lived in Brainerd almost 28 years, and, during that time have held several public offices. If my record, either as a citizen or as a public officer, is such that you cannot support me, it is, of course, your privilege to vote against me. If, on the other hand, I have performed my duty as a citizen and as a public officer, I hope to receive your support. I know that I have always tried to do right, and, if elected, I shall continue to try to do right. I believe I understand the duties of county attorney and the growing needs of the county. I shall be guided by these in the performance of the duties of the office, if elected.

Yours Truly,
W. A. FLEMING.

An Eye Test.

Most people believe that they see the same with both eyes. That this is not the case one can easily convince himself by the following simple experiment. Cover one of the eyes with a hand or a bandage and let the expert menter attempt to snuff out a candle suddenly placed within a few feet of him. He will almost invariably miss the flame, either overreaching, under-reaching or putting the fingers too far to the right or left of the flame. With both eyes normal and open the accommodation for distance and direction is instantaneous.

A Mistaken Cue.

It was exhibition day at No. 3, and as the parents of Jack Grady, the cutest pupil, were absent, hopefully the teacher tried her best to keep the boy.
"How did Charles do on his last question on her list to Jack?"
As he looked at her, with no indication of a coming answer, the teacher put her hand up to her neck. Jack saw the movement and understood the meaning as he looked at her.

LL LECTURE IN BRAINERD

Ms. Caroline Bartlett Crane Speaks in Brainerd at the Opera House on October 9th

AVORABLE PRESS NOTICES

Appears Under Auspices State Board of Health and Federation of Womens' Clubs

Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane will give a free lecture at the opera house Sunday, October 9th, appearing under the joint auspices of the State Board of Health and the Federation of Women's clubs. Many of the churches will give up their services that evening in order to permit their congregation to hear this gift speaker.

In an editorial dated March 8th, 1909, the Scranton Truth, under the heading "Diseased Charity" says:
"After hearing Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane's discourse in the Pol-theatre yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the City Improvement association and the Scranton Board of Trade, no one could doubt that this remarkable woman is in truth a specialist in civic disease."
"It was diseased charity which she diagnosed yesterday. The scalpel and the surgeons knife were found in evidence. For Mrs. Crane found many things that did not please her, in connection with the charities of this county."

"There are some rather formidable obstacles in the path of the ideal system advocated by Mrs. Crane.
But they are, perhaps, not insurmountable and in time we believe that the majority of the suggestions made by Mrs. Crane will be adopted."
"One thing is certain, Mrs. Crane is illustrating each day what an important part women can play in the housekeeping of a city, even though they may not be granted the electoral privilege."

MUSIC AND DRAMA

At the Grand

The vaudeville feature at the Grand this week is the Aibion team who give a sketch entitled, "His First Lesson." This shows the amateur who pays for a course of instruction in the manly art and is nearly wicked by the practical side of administering upper cuts and solar plexus hits and side swipes on the point of the chin. At the finish the pupil plants a left hook on the instructor's jaw and floors him. The moving pictures are very good.

WRECKED BY DYNAMITE EXPLOSION

Special to the Dispatch:—

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 1, 1910.
—The Building occupied by the Times Publishing Co., was totally destroyed by fire this morning and there was a heavy loss of life, estimated at between fifteen and twenty.
The fire preceded by an explosion and immediately the building was enveloped in flames, cutting off the escape of many of the employees.
The Times has been conducted as an open shop for years and the managing editor has issued a statement charging that the explosion was caused by dynamite used by the enemies of industrial freedom. The property loss is a half million.

DEATH OF EMIL THEORIN

Brother of Deputy Sheriff Claus Theorin Died of Typhoid Fever
Early This Morning

Emil Theorin, aged 32 years and unmarried, a son of Mr. and Mrs. C.
G. Theorin of Deerwood, passed away early this morning. He had been sick for two weeks with typhoid fever and up to nine o'clock last night was supposed to be gaining in strength. At about one o'clock this morning he was stricken with a severe hemorrhage which his weakened system was unable to recuperate from and he passed away peacefully at the local hospital where he has been treated.

The deceased has always lived in Deerwood and for many years has been running a drill for the Rogers-Brown Ore Co. He was well liked by his numerous associates and made many friends who appreciated his quiet, manly ways. He leaves surviving his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C.
G. Theorin, a brother, Deputy Sheriff
Claus Theorin and four sisters, Mrs.
Julius Brandt, and the Misses Esther Hagland and Ellen Theorin. The funeral arrangements will be announced later. The burial will be at Deer-wood.

The deceased was a devoted member of the Swedish Lutheran church and belonged to the order of the Woodmen of the World. The sympathy of their many friends is extended the family in their sad bereavement.

Zuellsdorff-Anderson

William Fred Zuellsdorff and Signa Marie Anderson, both parties of Gull Lake, were united in marriage at the Methodist Episcopal parsonage at eleven o'clock this morning.

Miss Veda Peterson assisted the bride in the ceremony, Osborne Anderson being the best man. Only a few of the friends of the young couple witnessed the marriage, and the wedding lines of the short ring service were read by the Rev. Chas.
Fox Davis.

The wedding company left for their home this afternoon at Gull Lake, and will permanently reside there.

Crow Wing County Educational Association

The next meeting of the association will be held in Brainerd October 14 and 15 in conjunction with the County School board association.
The school boards will convene at 9 a. m., the teachers at 1:30 p. m.
Teachers will find much to interest them in the board's program and boards will find much of interest in the teacher's program. Plan to attend both.

Hon. J. W. Olson will be the principal speaker in the forenoon of Friday and Prof. Kingsford of the Moorhead Normal will deliver one address Friday afternoon and one Friday evening. Other public speakers will have part in the program.

Friday afternoon Miss Walsh of the Brainerd city school will give an exercise in reading with a class of first term pupils.

Miss Barrett, principal of the Whittier school will give an interesting and practical talk on map drawing.

Saturday morning will be largely devoted to business. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected at this meeting.

Several local teachers will be on the program Saturday forenoon.

Teachers will do much good if they will urge their boards to attend all the sessions of the meeting.

Teachers should arrange to attend the session Friday morning.
Teachers will be allowed Friday on the certificate plan.

Don't Break Down

Severe strains on the vital organs, like strains on machinery, cause break downs. You can't over-tax stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels or nerves without serious danger to yourself. If you are weak or run-down, or understrain of any kind, take Electric Bif-ters, the matchless tonic medicine.
Mrs. J. E. Van de Sande, of Kirkland, Ill., writes: "That I did not break down, while enduring a most severe strain, for three months, is due wholly to Electric Bitters." Use them and enjoy health and strength. Satisfaction positively guaranteed. 50c at

SAW AUGUST SNOW STORM

Explored Glaciers and Vissited Yukon Country over Famous White Pass Railroad

After returning from the north I remained a few days at Seattle and then started on my return via Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles.
When part way to Portland I stopped at Chehalis. W. H. Spalding (Henry Junior, we used to call him) is proprietor of the Spalding hotel in that city. Chehalis is about the size of Brainerd. It has street cars and more than twenty passenger trains enter and depart from that city daily. It is a hustler. Young Spalding does the work of his hotel, outside of the kitchen and dining room, himself, and his wife watches everything in the kitchen and dining room. He is doing a remarkably good business and making money.
He is a son of Henry Spalding now proprietor of the Spalding hotel at Crosby, Crow Wing county, Minnesota. I next stopped at Portland.
I found many former Brainerd people there. I remained a few days at San Francisco. The way that city has built up since the fire is astonishing. All along Market street and near it the skyscrapers are numerous. While there I visited our ex-mayor, Henry J. Small. He is at the head of the mechanical department of the Southern Pacific railroad. After remaining in San Francisco a few days, I took the train for Los Angeles, but stopped at Mountain View, 40 or 50 miles from San Francisco. W. W. Hartley lives there and has a large hardware store and is doing a good business. One of our ex-school teachers of Brainerd, Miss Morman, who is a sister of Mrs. W.
W. Hartley, was visiting there. After leaving Brainerd she married a very wealthy man from Texas, who has since died and left her a very large fortune. I forgot her present name. She and her daughter would travel in the United States for a few months and then would continue their journey on around the world and back to their Texas home. While I was taking supper with my old friend W. W. Hartley and family, I was telling them about the difficulty I had experienced in finding the exact date of the falling of the N. P. railroad bridge across the Mississippi river at Brainerd in 1875. Mr.
Hartley said, "I can tell you." He got up and stepped across the room and took down a bound volume of Brainerd Tribunes. The Tribune of Saturday, July 31, 1875, says the R.
R. bridge across the Mississippi river at Brainerd fell on the previous Tuesday, which was July 27th, 1875. I then continued my journey to Los Angeles. While there I called on many former residents of Brainerd, including our former Superintendent of N. P. Shops S. L. Bean, and family.
I then started for Salt Lake, over the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake railroad. A few miles east of San Bernardino we entered the desert and for more than twenty hours we were running through it and up to within a few miles of Salt Lake City. Sage brush and cactus is all the vegetation there is on this desert plain. Between these bunches of sage brush and cactus there is no grass or vegetation of any kind. The soil is not sand but seems to be a sort of mixture of clay and has the appearance of the bad lands in North Dakota. When we reached Salt Lake City I went to the bathing grounds in the lake about fifteen miles away.
I was anxious to know if the water would hold me up as reported. I found by experience, that the report is correct. I was told there that five pails of lake water would make one pail of salt. The Mormon Temple, tabernacle and assembly hall, using one full block of ground, are handsome buildings. After I had done Salt Lake City I started for Denver, on the Denver and Rio Grand railway at 10:45 P. M. When I awoke the next morning the country seemed to be as much of a desert as west of Salt Lake City. Early in the forenoon we entered the valley of the Grand river, which is a branch of the Colorado. In ascending the valley of this river, our train ran through gorges where it seemed as though engineering skill would find it impossible to build a railroad. For several hours we were passing through these wonderful gorges. When we nearly the source of the Grand the valley widened out to about one half mile or more in width. In this valley on one side of the river and for about one mile in length and about 1/2 mile in width, was a bed of pure lava from ten to twenty feet in thickness visible. Soon thereafter we crossed the mountains, passed Leadville and commenced to descend the Arkansas river. In descending this river we were passing through grand and indescribable gorges all the time. The Royal Gorge is a giant-ic slit in the Rocky mountain through which the Arkansas river runs. The slit between the rocks is so narrow that the railroad did not attempt to build the roadbed from the bottom of the river but drilled holes into the granite rock on both sides of the

AN AUTO RACE IS DEADLY

Special to The Dispatch:—

Long Island Parkway, Oct. 1st.— Two are dead and eleven are injured in the auto race for the Vanderbilt cup. The dead are Harold Stone, driver of the Columbia car, and Chas.
Miller, mechanic for Chevrolet.
Accidents were numerous. Harry Grant, in an Alco car won the cup.

river and into these holes they put gigantic steel beams and had them meet near the middle of the river some yards above the hole in the rock on the side. From those steel beams a bridge is hung and over it trains run. By this course the channel of the Arkansas is left wide enough so the water can get through between the rocks.

When we reached Colorado Springs
I left the train and stopped at the Springs over night. In the morning
I went to the top of Pike's Peak.
From Colorado Springs I went to Manitou on the street cars, which run over rails the same as other cars. There is a middle rail full of cogs. On the engine there is a cog wheel which works in the cogs in this middle rail. The ascent of the track most of the way up was twenty five per cent. We were about 1 1/2 hours going up. Pike's Peak is not one peak by itself, as one might suppose, but is one of many of the mountain range. A part of the way up we followed a mountain stream. A little way below the top of the Peak there are a number of lakes. This mountain water is controlled by and supplies Colorado Springs. For some distance going out of Colorado Springs, on each side of the road, is a beautiful brook of mountain water.
After we pass the vegetation line the peaks are composed of rocks only.
After we got to the top of the Peak, I found I had to remain comparatively quiet in order to keep my wind in good shape. Pike's Peak is 14,- 147 feet high, or nearly three miles.
From the top of the Peak you can see Colorado Springs, Manitou, Cripple Creek and mountains without number. Some of the passengers were throwing snow balls at each other when on the top of the peak.
The train is an engine and one car.
On one side of the Peak it is nearly perpendicular for several thousand feet down. It was quite cold on the top of the Peak when I was there but pleasant at the base of the mountain. At Colorado Springs I stopped at the Antlers hotel. This hotel is in a small town but will compare favorably with any I have seen.
That afternoon I went on to Denver.
After looking over the city somewhat
I took the Burlington for Omaha.

When I finished my course at the University at Madison, Wis., in 1868,
I. S. Leavitt was one of my classmates. I had not seen him since.
I knew he was in business in Omaha.
As I afterward ascertained, he is in the real estate business, and his son is one of the leading men in that city. Their offices are in the 15th story of one of the Omaha skyscrapers. They have one large reception room and six private offices. In the reception room they have three lady stenographers. One of them asked me whom I wanted to see. I told her I would like to see I. S. Leavitt.
She went to his room and rapped. I could not hear what was said from within, but the lady said that he would see me. I went into his private office. He was then busy with a man. After he got through with the man he was talking with he turned to me and gave me a look which I construed to ask what I wanted. I would not have known him if I had not known he was in there. He did not know me. We had not seen each other since 42 years ago last June. I asked him if his name was I. S. Leavitt. He said it was. I asked him if he was doing some real estate business. He said he was doing some for himself.
I asked him if he dealt fairly with men and gave them a square deal and did not take unfair advantage of them. After some other questions I asked him if he was the fellow we used to call Ike Leavitt when he was in the University at Madison. "I am," he said, "but who are you?" I never saw you before." "I am the fellow the that you boys used to call George Holland." We became acquainted again. We talked until lunch time, then went out to lunch and after lunch I went up to his house with him and had dinner.
After dinner he went down to the Union depot with me, went into the sleeper with me, and we talked until the porter came in the car and said time is up. We were not quite through and kept on. Soon we realized the train was moving and he hurried out of the sleeper. After lunch, as we were walking along the street, he asked me to step into a store until he spoke to a man. We went into a store well filled with merchandise. He did not see his man and I followed him into the basement of the building which was well filled with merchandise and brilliantly lighted with electricity.
We moved along a ways. He said, "This is under the sidewalk," but the space was equally well lighted and full of expensive goods. We moved on, looking at the goods. I remarked that the room was well lighted. He said we were then und-using all the space under the street was new to me.

THE SCORCHER.

By many a gasping man a-scoot
I whiz around a corner
And cover one chap's clothes with mud.
Thus leaving him forlorn.
I cut the muffler out and leap Along some darkened highway
And laugh at language hoarse and deep
From folk who hunt the byway.

Through many a little town I blaze
While constables would halt me,
And timid people everywhere
Are willing to assault me.
Yet I am scorching on, you know,
For I am pretty clever,
For when I come then men must go
Or else they'll go forever.
—Chicago Evening Post.

I Love You.

Very interesting are the phrases used by the various people of the world to express "I love you." Wherever there are human beings declarations of love are made, and there are a thousand languages in which the tender passion may be expressed. The Chinese say "Uo ugal ni." The Armenian expresses his love with "Se siren as bez." The Arab is content with the short "Ne habbek," while the Turk murmurs "Sidi sevelorum." In India "Main syne ka pisar karim" is the declaration. But the Greenlanders hold the palm for the word of love. When he does not stammer it has fifteen syllables and has been recorded phonetically thus: "Unifgraerdnialalerfironajunguarri-ujak!"

He Understood.

In all policies of insurance there, among a host of other questions, occur: "Age of father, if living?" "Age of mother, if living?" A man in the country who filed up an application made his father's age, "if living," 112 years and his mother's 102. The agent was amazed at this and fancied he had secured an excellent customer; but, feeling somewhat dubious, he remarked that the applicant came of a very long lived family.

"Oh, you see, sir," replied the applicant, "my parents died many years ago, but 'if living' would be aged as there put down."

"Exactly, I understand," said the agent.

Making It Clear to Him.

"It is very difficult to understand London English," said an American. "I know a man who had lodgings in Bloomsbury, near the British museum. On his return from the museum one afternoon my friend said to his landlady:

"Can I have a cup of tea, if you please?"

"Certainly, sir; at once," the landlady replied. "The kettle 'as been b'llin' for ours."

"But—er—I prefer freshly boiled water, if you don't mind," stammered my friend.

"The landlady reddened with anger.

"'Look 'ere,' she said, 'if I 'ad meant wot you mean I'd 'ave said b-o-u-r-s.'"

Snubbing a Grand Duke.

When the Russian Grand Duke Sergius, who was blown to pieces with a dynamite bomb, was governor of Warsaw he thought it would be a good idea if the people of that city would contribute to a fund with which to buy sunflower seeds to be given to the Russian soldiers, who are very fond of chewing them. Sergius announced that every one sending money would be given a receipt, but those sending 1,000 rubles ($50) or more would be thanked personally by himself. It is said that the response was excellent; but, though no one sent in 1,000 rubles and asked to be thanked personally by the grand duke, many sent in 999 rubles and asked for the receipt.

Was Not a Fungus.

A certain worthy minister was a keen and accomplished naturalist. His specialty was a remarkable knowledge of different classes of fungi. His enthusiasm, however, was but indifferently appreciated by certain members of his parish, and one day when calling upon one of them—a sour old spinster—he was considerably embarrassed when she reminded him of the exact length of time that had elapsed since he had last paid her a visit. He began to make excuses for the delay, when she abruptly and curtly cut him short.

"If I was a toadstool," she said, with grim irony, "you'd have been to see me long ago!"—London Tit-Bits.

The Memory Machine.

Amnesia, or loss of memory, is chiefly interesting to the psychologists as throwing some light on the nature of memory itself. A perfect act of memory consists of three distinct acts—preservation or fixation of certain states of the nerve cells, reproduction of these and, perhaps most remarkable of all, recognition of them as reproductions in their relations. Morbid states of the memory may refer to any of these phases of an act which is as marvelous as anything in nature. There are about 3,000,000,000 nerve cells in the surface of the human brain. They never die in health, and they are never replaced or added to. This is memory's machine.

Surmounting a Crisis.

Edward Everett Hale used to tell with a rueful smile a story of his boyhood, when, like other boys, he occasionally mislaid some of his belongings. His gloves in particular had a strange way of disappearing one at a time. At last his mother, by way of assisting his memory, sent him out one day with a red cotton glove on one hand and a white glove on the other. Even at this painful crisis, however, his wits helped him.

"I held one hand in front of me and one behind my back," said Dr. Hale, "and it seemed to me that people coming toward me would think I had on a pair of white gloves, while those behind would think I wore a pair of bright red ones."

Sign of the White Envelope.

If you are in a certain Irish town and are looking out for lodgings you would probably come to the conclusion that none are to be had, for search as you will for the familiar "Apartments to Let" notice so often seen in the windows of houses in other places, you will search in vain. Instead you may observe fastened by the flap to the window a clean white envelope. This is an indication to all whom it may concern that apartments are to be had within. This curious custom is greatly in vogue at the seaside health resort Kilkee, County Clare, where all houses that have apartments to let exhibit a white envelope in the window.—London Answers.

The Veiled Prophet.

The veiled prophet, Mokanna (Hakim Ben Allah), whom Tom Moore made the subject of his beautiful poem, was a real character and not a mere poetic fiction. Mokanna lived in the eighth century. Pretending to be an incarnation of God, he founded a sect in Khorrassan which for a time was quite powerful. Rebelling against the caliph, he was for a time successful, but was subdued about 780, when he and the leading men under him took poison to escape the shame of a public execution.—New York American.

Throwing the Dart.

Throwing the dart is a picturesque custom which is observed in Cork, Ireland. Every third year the chief magistrate proceeds to the mouth of Cork harbor in full state. Following him a mermaid custom, he throws a dart into the sea—a dart with a head of gold and a shaft of mahogany—saying, "I cast this javelin into the sea and declare that as far around as it falls extend the right and dominion of the corporation of Cork to and over the harbor as well as the rivers, creeks and bays within the same."

The Sago Plant.

Sago is a nutritive, farinaceous substance obtained from the pith of several species of palms growing in such hot countries as Java and Sumatra. The stem, about fifteen to twenty feet long, is cut into pieces and the pith dug out and placed in a vessel having a sieve bottom. Water poured into the sieve washes the flour thus exposed into a second vessel. When the water is poured off and the residue becomes dry it is known as sago flour. The pith left behind forms what is known as common brown sago.

Ship Money.

Charles I. was badly in need of money, and his attorney general in the course of his antiquarian researches discovered that in the dim ages of the past the crown had issued writs to the cities and towns on the coast requiring them to provide vessels for the royal needs, and he suggested that this ancient right might be brought into use again. Instead of the actual vessels a money contribution might be exacted instead. Thus the king would be able to tax a large part of the realm while theoretically observing the laws. Writs for ship money were accordingly issued, but the patriot John Hampden declared that they were illegal and raised such a protest against them that they were practically nullified.

The Oldest Epitaph.

The oldest epitaph in English, which is found in a churchyard in Oxfordshire and dates from the year 1370, to modern readers would be unintelligible not only from its antique typography, but from its obsolete language. The first two lines of which run as follows and may be taken as a sample of the whole:

"Man com & se how schal alle dede be; wen yow comes bad & bare; not have ven we away fare; all ye werines yt ve for care."

The modern reading would be: "Man, come and see how shall all dead be when you come poor and bare; nothing have when we away fare. All is weariness that we for care."

The Rule of Three.

Professor McGoozie—It is astonishing how little the young people of the present day know of mathematics. For example, Miss Tartun—or you, Mr. Sparks—do you remember what the rule of three is?

Miss Tartun—Oh, yes, professor; I haven't forgotten that, I think. "Three is a crowd." That right?—Chicago Tribune.

NO MORE INDIGESTION

No Sourness, Heartburn, Gas, Headache, or Dyspepsia Five Minutes After Taking Diapiesin

Every family here ought to keep some Diapiesin in the house, as any one of you may have an attack of indigestion or stomach trouble at any time, day or night.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a distressed, out-of-order stomach five minutes afterwards.

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you do eat seems to fill you, or lays like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist for a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapiesin, and take a little just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headaches, dizziness or intestinal griping. This will go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapiesin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it prevents fermentation and takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there. Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery at any drug store, waiting for you.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to cure almost any chronic case of dyspepsia, indigestion or any other stomach trouble.

Preservative Peat.

Peat possesses wonderful antiseptic and preservative qualities owing to the presence of tannin, iron and other substances in it. Here is an instance: At the time of the covenanters, in 1685, three men were shot at a place called Crossgaleoch on the moors above Old Cunnock, in Scotland. In 1825, when an monument was being erected to their memory, the workmen came upon the corpses rolled in their plaid. The bodies were in exactly the same state as when they were buried. The moss had preserved them as if they had been embalmed.

HAPPY RESULTS

Have Made Many Brainerd Residents Enthusiastic

No wonder scores of Brainerd citizens grow enthusiastic. It is enough to make anyone happy to find relief after years of suffering. Public statements like the following are but truthful representations of the daily work done in Brainerd by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. J. H. Zellers, 915 Main St., Brainerd, Minn., says: "I just as enthusiastically recommend Doan's Kidney Pills now as I did several years ago when I publicly endorsed them. I suffered a great deal from dull, heavy pains across the small of my back and over my kidneys. There was also a miserable, bearing-down sensation through my loins and I could not stoop without suffering intensely. The secretions from my kidneys plainly showed that these organs were disordered. Learning of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box from a local drug store and the results of their use were wonderful. I was helped from the first, continued use resulted in a complete cure. I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills at the present time even more highly than I did in my previous statement for since that time no symptoms of kidney trouble has reappeared."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

It Saved His Leg

"All thought I'd lose my leg," writes J. A. Swensen, of Watertown, Wis. "Ten years of eczema, that 15 doctors could not cure, had at last laid me out. Then Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured it, sound and well." Infallible for Skin eruptions, eczema, salt rheum, boils, fever sores, burns, scalds, cuts and piles. 25c at all druggists.

When Pens Were First Used.

About the year 600 A. D. pens made of quills were introduced. This is shown by the fact that the word penula, a quill, is not found, it is claimed, in any work bearing an earlier date. Previous to that time the word calamus, signifying a reed, was exclusively employed as a designation for the vehicle used in transferring the ink to the parchment or other surface selected by the writers of that early age. Steel pens first came into use in 1803, and about twenty-two years later those composed of gold made their appearance.
